MOUNTAIN VIEW

is among the oldest of cemeteries for the public in San Gabriel Valley. As was the custom in frontier days, residents of Pasadena buried their loved ones on family property. Laura Giddings and Charles Banbury (son of a Lieutenant Colonel in the Union Army) were buried on private land that lay along the Arroyo Seco, now part of the Wrigley Estate. When Colonel Banbury decided to sell his property in 1882, the matter of what would become of these graves became urgent. This prompted Mr. Giddings to provide some of his property to be dedicated as a cemetery, and the burials were moved in early 1883. By the end of the year, eight other transfers were made for a total of 24 burials. After nearly 130 years, the descendants of Levi W. Giddings still operate the cemetery, mortuary and crematory.

Through the years, Mountain View acquired the adjacent Mountain View Mausoleum on Marengo Avenue, and Pasadena Mausoleum further down Fair Oaks Avenue. Both mausoleums offer the finest in burial crypts, niches and Westminster crypts.

Mountain View has two beautiful chapels: Chapel of the Gardens and Sunrise Chapel. Also available for memorial services is the open-air Vista Del Monte committal, and the intimate Drawing Room next to our main office. Mountain View is also known for its extensive stained glass windows, art collection and arboretum type grounds with trees from all over the world.
